Study Days

At the end of each fall and spring semester, the two days prior to the beginning of the Final Exam Schedule are designated as Study Days. The Study Days are designed to provide students with time after the end of semester class meetings to prepare for final examinations, which are administered during the Final Examination Period at the end of each semester.

Classes do not meet during Study Days. All major reports and assignments should be scheduled to be completed before Study Days.

Study Days are not to be used as dates on which papers are to be turned in, examinations are to be given, quizzes are to be scheduled, mandatory review sessions are to be held, or for any other class-related activities, other than office hours. Faculty may conduct voluntary review sessions at which no new material is presented on these days.

Courses that do not run the full semester, i.e., 8-week courses, do not have a scheduled Study Day.

Final Exams

Regardless of course modality, final examinations given during the Final Exam Schedule must be given on the dates and at the times when they are scheduled. Unless otherwise noted, exams will take place in the same classroom where the class has been scheduled over the semester.

For courses that do not meet during regular scheduled times such as online (asynchronous), independent study, internship, private lessons, etc., final exams are administered at the discretion of the instructor but should still take place during final exam days.

For courses that do not run for a full semester, i.e., 8-week courses, the final examination will be administered on the last day of the course; however, short courses that end with the semester may use the final exam time scheduled for that course.

Final examinations for summer terms will be scheduled during the course's regular meeting time on the last day.

Only the Dean of the respective school can authorize departure from the Final Exam Schedule however instructors should provide alternate exam times for students with conflicting exam schedules.

*Thursday night final exams are scheduled on day-two of Study Days.
